When it is subjected to the above treatment, the oil is first burned off, and then at a certain decree of heat, the oxygen and carbonic acid are set free, leaving only the metaHic lead from which it was manufactured. If, however, there be present in the sample any of the above mentioned adulterations, they cannot of course be reduced to metallic lead, and cannot be reduced by auy hrat of the blow.pipe flame to their own metallic bases; and being intimately incorporated and ground with the carbonate of lead, they prevent it from being reduced. It is well after blowing upon the sample, say half a minute, by which time the oil will be burned off, to loosen the sample from the charcoal, with a knife blade or spatula, in order that tho flame...
